city like New York is not to be wonen the mass with the inspiration of American ideals.

This movement was instituted by the mayor's committee on national defense, with which a number of prominent members of the Merchants' association are now co-operating. The primary objects are to secure unity of interest and feeling, to allay suspicion and distrust, and to remove as far as possible any racial antagonisms. The campaign will be conducted with the assistance of the public schools and of social settlements, clubs ganizations. The work is most important and deserving of every encouragement. It is estimated that 80 per cent, of the population were either born abroad or are children of parents who were born abroad and it is also estimated that about 500, 000 cannot read or understand the English language. A large number of these people do not know even why the United States is at war, or what principles are at stake. The task of unifying the various ra cial elements of New York is a more difficult one than that which arose upon the founding of Alexandria. The population of the ancient city was composed of radically different peoples, Egyptians, Greeks and Jews, but Ptolemy Soter established a new religion, the cult of Seraphs, which was novel and miraculous enough to attract all ements and render them homogeneous. It would take an uncommon flight of the imagination to devise a means of unifying New York by a single stroke of statecraft.-New
